

Taskstream Waiver

Beginning Fall 2019, all courses requiring field experiences, dispositions and key assessments will also require students to have an active Taskstream account. Failure to have this active account and submit field experience, dispositions and key assessments could result in failure of course assignments and possible failure of the course. A waiver is available.

Only students in non-education programs and Occupation Area In-Service Teachers may choose to sign a waiver. The waiver eliminates the requirement of an active Taskstream account. When signing the waiver, the non-education student and the Occupation Area In-Service Teacher agrees and understands the following:

- Field experience hours obtained in said course must be completed as required by the class. However, it cannot be counted towards the state required field experience hours.
- Any information that is collected in Taskstream (field experience, dispositions, and key assessments) will not be available via the Assessment Administrator. In other words, Taskstream is a data collection point. If the information is not entered into Taskstream then it cannot be collected and thus would be unavailable through the Assessment Administrator going forward.
- Information not entered into Taskstream during the required class cannot be entered into Taskstream at a later date.
- If a non-education major decides to change their program to an education program, the field experience, dispositions, key assessments, etc. that have been waived will still not count towards the student's education program requirements. Once the Taskstream waiver has been signed the student forfeits their rights to count Taskstream required work, etc., towards their education program degree.
- This form must be completed and submitted to the class instructor by last class day of the second week of the semester. The class instructor must have these forms on file with the Assessment Administrator by the third week of the semester.

By signing the Taskstream waiver I agree to the terms set forth above. This form must be submitted to my professor by the last class day of the second week of the semester.
